

There's nothing that's not improved by a healthy dash of Hayao Miyazaki, not even a regulation football.

And we'll need a snappy slogan. Something with a bit of grandeur.

And spaceships to add some pizzazz.

Prof. John N. Frink, Jr., patron saint of geeks, harnessing the power of the testosterone molecule.

Latin and binary, the peanut butter and jelly of any nerd sandwich.

Two IEEE 1394b-2002 ports and two USB 2.0 ports. This football connects.

Code 128 Barcode. Scan this logo. I dare you.

Go red, white and blue. Geeks are patriots, too.

Why stop at Roman numerals, when you can have a sum?

Coaches, Dungeon Masters. Tomato, tomahto.

It never hurts to throw in a little Masonic something for good luck.

Lastly, let's add the team logos. Clear communication is important.